NUMB. 3227

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1744.

Vienna, September 2.

E shall have in these Countries, Bavaria included, in less than a Month, 160,000 Men. Prince Charles has with him 76,000, with 21,000 Hungarians; and 8000 Croats will join him before the End of the Month. Prague is well provided. The King of Prussia exacts from every Lord of a District, who has raised the Militia, 150 Florins for each Man; so that he who has raised a Company, is taxed at 18,000 Florins. Olmutz is so well provided; that it is thought his Prussian Majesty will not go into Moravia. The Corps he has on that Side is only 9000 Men, under Marwitz. He has detached 4000 Horse into the Circle of Saxe, and General Luckesi is gone after them with a Detachment. A small Body of Austrian Hussars attacked, on the Frontier of Bohemia, 800 of the Prussian Infantry, fell in amongst them Sabre in Hand, and killed 300 of them; but of the Hussars only five returned. Another Body at Konigsgratz put to flight 400 Prussian Dragoons, and killed and took several. General Bathiani is encamped, with his Corps, at Plais, near Ratconitz, and battles the Prussians with Parties. Four hundred Prussian Deserters arrived at once at Prague, but the Court has sent Orders to admit none into the Town, where two Prussian Spies have been taken; one of whom was hanged, and the other hung himself. We expect the Prince in 10 or 11 Days in Bavaria. It is said the French German Troops, to the Number of 14,000, are with the Imperialists, Hessians, and Palatines; which will form an Army of about 30,000 Men.

Vienna, September 5. The Prussians are in a Manner investing Prague, tho' there is no certain News yet of the coming up of their main Artillery. The Communication is indeed still open with Pilsen; that is to say, on the other Side of the Mulda; and General Bathiani's Corps between Plais and Beraun. The present Efforts of the Prussians are to dislodge the Austrians from an advanced Post, called Ziskaberg, lately fortified, upon an Eminence to the East of the Town. The Militia have hitherto behaved well, in returning brisk Fire for Fire; and as long as this Post, and one behind it, called Gilgenberg, can be maintained, there is no approaching the Town on this Side the Mulda.

Mitau, Aug. 27. We are exceedingly uneasy throughout this Duchy (Courland) at the March of near 40,000 Russian Troops into our Neighbourhood; but where they are to move next, or when, is what we know not. At present, we are more intent than ever, on the Election of a new Duke; in order to which, an Application is necessary to the Dyet of Grodno, whether we have already sent our Deputies. As we find there are like to be many Candidates for this Dignity, we propose their joining all their Interests, in order to obtain, for us, a Dyet of Election. The principal Competitors will be the Marshal Count de Saxe, in the French Service, and the Prince of Anhalt Zerbst, who is Field-Marshal of his Prussian Majesty's Armies, and Father of the Imperial Princess of Russia; who will, in all Probability, be chosen.

Paris, September 11. At length his Majesty's Letter is arrived, directed to the Archbishop of this City, in order to the publick Singing of Te Deum for his Majesty's Recovery. It is dated the 4th Instant, and runs thus:

Cousin,

The signal Favour that I have just received from the Goodness of the Almighty, in regard to the Distress with which he permitted me to be attacked, is a new and very sensible Proof of that singular Protection, which hitherto he has been pleased to afford me. I cannot better employ the first Moments of my Recovery, than in giving the most publick Marks of my sincere Thankfulness, and to beseech him to grant me, during the rest of my Days, the Assistance necessary to prevent my being ever otherwise occupied, than in such a Manner as may redound to his Glory, and the good of my Subjects. The affecting Marks, that in this Conjunction I have received of their Attachment to me, has given me the greatest Consolation. They incline me to hope, that by the Fervour of their Prayers, new Blessings will be drawn down upon me, and upon my Kingdom; which I chiefly desire, for the Sake of rendering them happy. It is from these Sentiments, that I write you this Letter; in order to inform you, that my Intention is, that you shall cause Te Deum to be sung in the Cathedral Church of my good City of Paris, on the Day that the Grand Master, or Master of the Ceremonies, shall, on my behalf, direct.

In Consequence of this Letter, Te Deum was Yesterday sung, with the greatest Solemnity, in our Metropolitan Church. In the Evening there was a very fine Firework played off before the Town-House, and the whole City was illuminated. All our Fountains ran with Wine; and it is computed, that the Expences of the Day did not cost the City less than 800,000 Livres.

From the Camp of the Allies near Lill, September 13.

The Day before Yesterday we made another general Forage as far as Avelin, under an Escort of 6000 Men, who had two Field Pieces with them. The Peasants, nevertheless, found Means to carry off two Waggon from the Austrians; and Yesterday the French carried off some Horses from the English, belonging to their Artillery. We are informed, that the Army of Marshal Count de Saxe has been reinforced by 15,000 Regular Troops, that were posted near Dunkirk; and by the like Number, that were encamped near Dieppe, for the Defence of the Coasts of Normandy. That General has actually summoned Baron Keiffeghem, Governor of Ghent, to deliver up every Thing within the Place, belonging to the English, in the Space of a Week, on Pain of suffering Military Execution. We have laid under Water all the Country within two Leagues of Dendermonde, to prevent any Danger of being surpris'd by the French on that Side.
